(NOTE: pre-Quarterly Meeting tours will meet offsite)

This ETCC meeting will convene experts from industry, research centers, utility and government entities working to advance energy efficiency in the residential sector. Featured speakers will unite stakeholder perspectives on topics ranging from the challenges of zero net energy construction to advances in home automation and control. In the afternoon, a panel of ETCC Leadership Team members will present their vision for their residential ET programs, as well as facilitate a discussion with participants on challenges and opportunities in accelerating the adoption of energy efficient emerging technologies in the residential sector.

[OPTIONAL FOR IN-PERSON ATTENDEES] Tours will be offered in the morning for participants interested in visiting a zero net energy residential housing development at Northwest Land Park, which features structurally insulated panels, highly efficient appliances and HVAC equipment, a home energy control system and LED lighting, among other innovative technologies.
